Ohio University Men Doing Their "Bit" in Defense Work

OHIO UNIVERSITY, through its faculty, its facilities, and its alumni, is playing its modest part in the preparation of the nation for war emergencies.

Already two instructors, Dr. Donald E. Church and Dr. Robert C. Hume, have left the campus to engage in essential war work. Others, in all probability, will have joined them by this time next year.

The Athens Mechanics School, established by the National Youth Administration for the training of one hundred young men in aircraft and engine mechanics, is to be administered by Ohio University under a committee of which Dr. William M. Young, dean of the College of Applied Science, is the chairman. George H. Sprague, '32, will be the supervisor in direct charge of the activities. Members of the university teaching staff are cooperating in this project, for which the government has already provided between $50,000 and $75,000 worth of equipment.

The courses to be offered in the mechanics school include sheet metal work, mechanical drawing, mathematics, aircraft fundamentals, elementary bench work, elementary electricity, aircraft engine mechanics, aircraft structures, and welding. The students, certified by the N. Y. A. and approved by the College of Applied Science, have already entered upon their work which, under the law, must be completed by June 30.

They receive three hours of instruction followed by three and one-half hours of work each day, five days per week. Akron is the only other city in Ohio in which such a school has been established.

The work of the school will closely correspond to the first section of the United States Army aircraft and engine mechanics course, on which the school is patterned. Those who complete the course satisfactorily will be awarded certificates of achievement in recognition of their work and will doubtless find their services in ready demand by the Wright Aeronautical Corp., Cincinnati, and the Curtis-Wright Co., Columbus, both of which will soon be seeking thousands of trained workers.

As a part of the national engineering defense program, Ohio University, through Dean Young, has made a survey of the Southeastern Ohio area and has made arrangements for the offering of courses which will train students for vital positions in defense industries. More than 150 recognized engineering schools throughout the nation are cooperating in the program which is nationally sponsored by the United States Office of Education.

Thus far, 22 courses suggested by Dean Young have been approved in Washington and some of these are already being offered. The remainder await the organization of applicants into class groups.

Leslie F. Fultz

Courses in cost accounting, time and motion study, industrial organization and scientific management, calculus, machine design, mechanical drawing, shop mathematics, and gauges and measurements, will be offered in Marietta, Portsmouth, Ironton, and Zanesville.

Mechanical drawing will be available to students in Logan, while steam generator theory, and operation and test courses, in addition to those already mentioned, will be offered at Zanesville.

Members of the Ohio University teaching staff will provide the instruction in some courses, while qualified instructors in the course centers will be selected to augment the university faculty.

Mentioned elsewhere are a number of alumni who have entered the armed forces of the country. Names of other Ohioans in the military service will be published in The Ohio Alumnus as information comes to the editor.

In close touch with some of Uncle Sam's war preparations is Leslie F. Fultz, '39, who is in charge of the Washington office of the McBee Company (Athens). Mr. Fultz is the contact man for his company with various governmental agencies, including the War Department.

The McBee Company, which does a nation-wide business in the printing of business forms and the manufacture of the "McBee Keysort," a patented device for the rapid classification and selection of card records, has a government contract for the printing of a War Department form, known as the "Soldier's Qualification Card," which will be filled out for

Governor Bricker Delivers Splendid Address In Re-establishment of Founders' Day Event

GOVERNOR John W. Bricker honored Ohio University by appearing on its Founders' Day Convocation program in Alumni Memorial Auditorium, February 18, and was in turn honored by an enthusiastic student body which rose en masse to give him a rousing ovation as he stepped forward to deliver the address of the occasion.

Delayed only slightly by motor trouble, which an Associated Press story erroneously stated had caused him a three-hour, roadside wait near Logan in a below-freezing temperature, Governor Bricker arrived at the Class of 1912 Gateway to find Ohio University's R. O. T. C. regiment of 600 men drawn up to greet him with formal military honors.

Despite the extreme cold, hundreds of other students and a large number of townspeople were gathered in front of the Student Union and Howard Hall to cheer the state's chief executive as he arrived in a "rescue" car manned by state highway patrolmen.

After a few minutes in the office of President Herman G. James, to which he was escorted by an honor guard of R. O. T. C. cadets and a reception committee composed of Colonel T. F. McNeill, Public Relations Director B. T. Grover, and Alumni Secretary Clark E. Williams, Governor Bricker hastened to the Auditorium where he delivered the 1941 Founders' Day address before an audience that filled the large hall.

Music for the memorial program—the first since 1929—was provided by a selected orchestra, under the direction of Prof. DeForest W. Ingerham, and the University Choir, under the direction of Prof. Clarence C. Robinson. President James read a telegram of greetings and congratulations from President Howard L. Bevis of Ohio State University prior to introducing the governor.

In one of the finest and most appropriate addresses ever featured on a Founders' Day program, Governor

Bricker congratulated Ohio University upon its 137th birthday and paid tribute to the school and its founders, Rev. Dr. Manasseh Cutler and General Rufus Putnam, for leading and vital parts in the development of the common virtues and the intelligence of so large a number of people in the midwest.

The governor made an eloquent plea for a revaluation and rededication of the American people to the measurably taller, heavier, and healthier than the men who entered the army in the first World War.

Turning to the present and the immediate future, the governor said that "we are now looking forward to a great era of constructive education in Ohio, the aim of which will be, as it has been in the past, to train all men and women who possess the aptitude for academic training." However, he said, one man cannot be educated at the expense of another's remaining ignorant, and similarly, one state institution cannot be improved at the expense of another. State legislators and officials, he stated, are having a difficult task in meeting the needs of all of Ohio's educational institutions.

The governor expressed regret that so much of the tax money of Ohio must be used for relief, welfare agencies, and criminal and mental institutions, and pointed out that the appropriation requests for these agencies total one and one-half million dollars more this year than in the preceding biennium. "I would like to see a greater portion of our resources spent upon those who constitute our hope for a better world of tomorrow." These, Governor Bricker said, are the students at Ohio University and at other institutions, both state and private, which are devoted to their education.

The governor pointed out the need and the opportunity for community service. Our government is tending to become a bureaucratic "and somewhat autocratic" government, and our need is for stronger local government and for national and international leaders. One place, he concluded, in which our schools have been remiss, is in their failure to instill in the young a sense of their responsibility in government. Such a sense of responsibility, he said, together with a return to the spiritual and moral values, will prove our greatest need in the saving of democracy.

Secretary Williams, Governor Bricker, President James, Colonel McNeill spiritual, moral, and mental values upon which the nation was founded and to which Manasseh Cutler gave support in the Ordinance of 1787 when, in Article III, he drafted the declaration, "Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." The ordinance was designed to provide a government for the Northwest Territory.

In referring to the spirit in which he said Ohio University was founded, Governor Bricker remarked that the "pioneer spirit is thought of and referred to as a thing of the past; the pioneers as a race gone by." The spirit of democracy is not softening, however, he contended, nor is the youth of the nation deteriorating physically and morally, as is often claimed. He pointed out that the draftees in America's new army are

Chairman of Chemistry Department Among Oldest of Faculty Members

Joshua Romine Morton, B.S. '05, M.S. '12, (see front cover) fifth in seniority among the Ohio University alumni on the teaching staff of their alma mater, was born at Wilkesville, Ohio, Oct. 18, 1877.

He was a teacher in the public schools of Meigs County from 1896 to 1899. The following year he attended Rio Grande College, and the next year, 1900-01, he was principal of the Wilkesville Academy. During the period 1904-06, he was an instructor in chemistry at Ohio University, and for the three following years he was head of the department of science in the high school at Zanesville. In 1910, he returned to Ohio University where he has served continuously since that time; for two years as an instructor, two years as an assistant professor, three years as an associate professor, and, since 1917, as a full professor. He has been chairman of the department of chemistry since 1936.

Professor Morton is listed in "American Men of Science," "Who's Who Among American Authors," and "Who's Who Among Chemists." He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a member of the American Chemical Society.

In 1896, he married Miss Nellie Long of Wilkesville. The Mortons have three daughters: Mrs. Egbert P. Shetter (Doris Morton, '28), Charleston, W. Va.; Mrs. Elwin R. O'Neill (Frances Morton, '30), Athens; and Mrs. Eugene Trace (Emma Morton, '32), Peoria, Ill. All of the sons-in-law are Ohio University alumni.

Dave Baumhart Represents Northern Ohio District in National Body

Albert David Baumhart, Jr., who was born in Vermilion, Ohio, June 15, 1908, and who received an A.B. degree and an A.M. degree in 1930 and 1931, respectively, is the first Ohio University graduate to sit in Albert David Baumhart, Jr.

Congress since Israel M. Foster completed six years of service in the House of Representatives in 1925.

During his post graduate year at Ohio University, Congressman Baumhart was a fellow in economics. He had been a student assistant under Prof. A. C. Gubitz in his senior year. Before entering politics, he was a travelling representative in Ohio and West Virginia for Charles Scribner's & Sons, book publishers.

Mr. Baumhart was elected to the Ohio State Senate in the Fall of 1936, serving two terms. He was a member of a strong Republican minority group during the administration of Governor Martin L. Davey, a Democrat. Last November he was elected to the Seventy-Seventh Congress from the thirteenth Ohio district which includes Erie, Huron, Sandusky, Seneca, and Wood counties.

Mr. Baumhart has already been welcomed by Washington alumni who have named him honorary president of the Washington alumni chapter.

Judge Thomas Retires After More Than Score of Years on the Bench

On December 31, 1940, Judge David Hollis Thomas, '96, Marietta, retired from the bench of the Common Pleas Court of Washington County after twenty-two years and two months of service. During this more than a score of years on the bench he had presided over courts in approximately one third of Ohio's eighty-eight counties, including the six most populous. His service outside the home county was upon assignment of the Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court. The veteran jurist had heard cases in which millions of dollars of cash or property interests were involved.

Judge Thomas began the practice of law in Marietta soon after his graduation from the University of Michigan law school in 1900. He was city solicitor of Marietta for two terms and was elected judge of the county court in 1918.

One of the most loyal Ohioans in the entire alumni roster, Judge Thomas served as president of the Ohio University Alumni Association in 1919-20, and as a member of the Board of Trustees of his alma mater from 1922 to 1935. He was president of the board during the last seven years of his trusteeship.

Judge Thomas married a classmate, Miss Mary Ullom, '96, Athens, shortly after graduation. With Mrs. Thomas he will continue to live in his beautiful, old colonial home on Fifth Street, overlooking the campus of Marietta College.

The annually-awarded John Bayard Thomas Prize in Biology was established in 1931 by Dr. Josephus T. Ullom, '98, Philadelphia, in honor of a son of Judge and Mrs. Thomas and a nephew of the donor. John Thomas was killed in an automobile accident.

On and About the Campus . . .

A PAN-AMERICAN celebration will be held on the Ohio University campus, April 23, 24, and 25. A practical approach to the problems of Pan-American relationships and friendships will be discussed in a series of forums to be participated in by a commercial attaches, from a number of Pan-American legations in Washington and prominent mid-western industrial leaders. General chairman of the Ohio University committee on arrangements is China-born Wilfred J. Smith, instructor in history, who is shown in the accompanying picture displaying an oriental sword to his class in Far East history. Doctor Smith's father was for 42 years a teacher in a seminary in Wuchang, China.

REPRESENTATIVE Ohio University students have urged the editors of LIFE magazine to send photographers to the campus for the annual Mothers' Week-end program, April 25 and 26, to take a series of pictures for the magazine's weekly feature, "Life Goes To A Party." The week-end program will include many activities, among them a modern dance concert, a glee club serenade on the steps of Lindley Hall, folk dancing in costume on the campus, art exhibits, a track meet, Mortar Board ceremonies, recitals, a pageant, and a band concert by some 120 musicians. Mrs. John Philip Sousa has been invited to be an honor guest since the band plans to play a Sousa Memorial Concert. If she accepts the invitation, Mrs. Sousa will be chosen the "honorary mother" for the occasion.

BENNY GOODMAN and his orchestra provided the music for one of the early spring's feature social events, the Junior Prom, in the Men's Gym, February 21. Sue Berry, Utica, a member of Chi Omega sorority, was chosen Prom Queen, while John Zahndt, Wellsville, a football stalwart and member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, was named Prom King. More than 650 couples attended the dance.

HELEN JEPSON, glamorous star of opera, concert, and radio, will appear in concert in Alumni Memorial Auditorium on February 26.

Concerts of the University Orchestra and the University Band are scheduled for March 9 and April 26, respectively. The Women's Glee Club will be heard in concert on March 16. Alexander Laszlo, eminent composer-conductor-pianist whose concert and recital appearances have been worldwide, will be a guest conductor at the symphony concert. His "Improvisations on 'O Susannah,'" a musical fantasy paying tribute to Stephen

Dr. Wilfred J. Smith

Foster, will be included on the orchestra program. Conductor Laszlo was to have come to the campus on December 1, but ran into a conflicting date.

DR. WILLIAM C. BAGLEY, editor of School and Society and professor emeritus of education, in Teachers College, Columbia University, was the honor guest and speaker of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honorary society, February 12. The noted educator is a member of the executive council of Kappa Delta Pi. Dean T. C. McCracken, of Ohio University, is national president of KDP.

MISS ANNE KEATING, university librarian, prepared an interesting display of books and manuscripts, having to do with Ohio University and its historical background, for a showing on Founders' Day, February 18. The exhibit was held in the Art Gallery of the Edwin Watts Chubb Library where were also displayed the oil portraits of all of the university's presidents.

A NEW high record enrollment for the second semester at Ohio University has been reached with the registration of 3,291 students. The previous high mark was attained last year when 3,223 second-semester students were enrolled.

A MEASURE introduced in the State Legislature by Senator H. T. Phillips, '97x, Athens, would enlarge the present authority of state universities to operate dormitories by permitting them to lease or buy lands on which to erect housing units.

THE FEBRUARY graduating class numbered 42 students. Seven received masters' degrees; 34 baccalaureate degrees; and one a three-year diploma in elementary education. The total was eight larger than last year. No graduation exercises, unfortunately, are held in February. February graduates, however, have the privilege of participating in the June ceremonies.

DR. DONALD E. CHURCH, instructor in statistics in the College of Commerce, has resigned to accept a position in Washington as senior transportation economist in the U. S. Department of Commerce. Dr. Robert C. Hume, a physician who joined the University Health Service staff last fall and who is a first lieutenant in the U. S. Army Medical Corps Reserve, has been called to active duty at Camp Davis, Wilmington, N. C. Dr. Arthur H. Bickle, instructor in botany, will leave the University staff in June in response to a call from his local draft board.

A MIMEOGRAPHED periodical, "The Periscope," is being issued by faculty members of the history and government departments of the university for distribution to students in their classes. The publication includes brief surveys and interpretations of current national and international events. The editorial style is concise and objective.

Many Meetings Planned as Annual Season Of Intensified Alumni Activity Approaches

THE following story, belated and sparse in some details, brings the account of reported alumni activities up to date.

The Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland met at Higbee's, December 14, for luncheon and for a Christmas program planned by junior members of the organization.

A related, though not strictly alumni, activity was the Christmas party and dance given for Ohio University students at the Fairview (Cleveland) Community Building, December 28, by the Ohio University Mothers' Club of Lakewood. Mrs. George F. Reid is president of this active organization instead of Mrs. Herbert C. Paulus, as erroneously announced in the November issue of The Ohio Alumnus.

So great is the enthusiasm for Ohio University in the Cleveland area that two other mothers' clubs will soon be organized. The membership for the new clubs will be drawn from the eastern and western (excluding Lakewood) sections of the city and Cuyahoga County.

Alumni and undergraduates in the Pittsburgh area made merry at a formal New Year's Eve dinner-dance at Hotel Schenley. Lee Sellars, '31, president of the Pittsburgh alumni group was the master of ceremonies. Hats and noise makers were the favors of the evening. The Pittsburghers annual banquet will be held March 7 at the Congress of Women's Clubs, with B. T. Grover, '19, university public relations director, as the guest speaker. Mrs. Kathryn Benjamin Low, '31, is the chapter secretary.

Don C. Peden, director of athletics and head football coach, was the campus guest at a dinner meeting of the Bobcat Club in Cleveland on January 27. About 15 outstanding high school athletes and their coaches were also guests of the club on this occasion. The Cleveland men inaugurated their 1941 program with a fine demonstration of interest and enthusiasm.

Unavailable at the time of the report of the Bobcat-sponsored dance and football celebration in Cleveland last November was the picture of Clyde F. Sharp, '12, general chairman of the committee on arrangements. Mr. Sharp is a Cleveland representative of the Travelers Insurance Co.

The Ohio University Women's Club of Akron held a luncheon meeting January 25 at The Canteen, with a record attendance of 47 members. Mrs. Carl Adamson (Lucille Rea, '22) sang two songs which were followed by informal talks by two of the members. Mrs. K. O. Myers (Zelma Butt, '32), told of her experiences as a director of home economics in the public schools of Seward, Alaska, while Mrs. Ruth Evans (Wilford M.) Mayers, '29, told of her life in Sumatra, Dutch East Indies, during the past three years, and of her plans to return, the war permitting.

Clyde F. Sharp

The Akron women recently shared in the sponsorship of a play, "Ceiling Zero," which was produced by the Woman's City Club Little Theatre. Another of the club's money-making projects will be sectional bridge parties to be held during the months of February and March. Mrs. E. A. Coovert (Mabel Ledy, '10, 2-yr.) is chairman of the scholarship committee. Mrs. Rhys D. Evans (Mary Chappellear, '09) is president of the alumnae club.

The Akron chapter (men and women) under the leadership of Dr. W. E. McCorkle, '11, is planning a meeting for an early date and hopes to book the Ohio University Men's Glee Club during its contemplated trip into northern Ohio.

On February 15, the Women's Club in Cleveland joined ranks for a "Sing and Sandwich" party at the Y. M. C. A., 2200 Prospect Ave., with the ladies as hostesses. Dr. John G. Albright, '16, associate professor of physics at Case School of Applied Science, gave an illustrated lecture on "Lighting," a subject on which he is a recognized authority. Marian Whitsy, '18, is president of the alumnae group, while Dr. O. L. Dustheimer, '13, heads up the masculine contingent.

Ross County alumni anticipate another banner turn-out for their annual dinner and dance, February 28, at the Warner Hotel, Chillicothe. President Alvin Jones, '27x, and his committees have arranged a program which includes an address by Dr. Charles Newcomb, humorist and philosopher, greetings from President Herman G. James of the University, the awarding of a trophy to the "Outstanding Ohio University Student from Ross County," and dancing in a gaily-decorated ballroom.

Franklin county alumni should red-circle March 12 on their calendars, for Chapter President John G. Case, '13, has issued a call for a rally of his constituents on that date. The preliminary announcement promises that President James and a string quartet will be present from the campus.

R. G. "Dick" Angel, '25, 2-yr., reports that his Philadelphia cohorts are itching for a get-together but that plans have been held up in the hope that a campus personality might be available as a guest speaker. An announcement may be expected soon, he says.

Journalism Honor for Teacher

Grace Blake, 22, journalism instructor in McClain High School, Greenfield, has been honored by the inclusion of her name in Bibliography on Secondary School Journalism, compiled by Dr. Edward H. Redford, editor of the California Journal of Secondary Education.

Miss Blake has appeared on programs of the National Scholastic Press Association in Indianapolis, Cleveland, Chicago, and Cincinnati.

Season's Fine Record May Bring Chance at National Court Tournament in New York City

OHIO UNIVERSITY'S Bobcat basketballers finished one of the most satisfactory seasons in Green and White basketball history with a victory over the Dayton Flyers, February 25, in Ohio Gym. The score was 72-47.

The "Big Six," as the six seniors pictured with Coach Bill Trautwein are known, closed their collegiate careers with a spurt that gave their team a record of 16 wins against only three losses during the 1940-41 campaign. One of the three defeats was by a mere one-point margin.

Sharp-shooter Frank Baumholtz, ace forward, achieved two ambitions; one, to score more than 300 points during the season, and the other, to pass the 1,000 mark for a three-year total. His seasonal final was 340 points, while the grand total for his collegiate career was 1,042. Carl Ott, a guard, was the second-high scorer for the season with a total of 172 markers.

These seven men started their careers together, the six seniors seeing their first intercollegiate competition in the first game after Trautwein had been named head coach of basketball, in 1938.

The performance of this year's team may bring an invitation to participate in the National Invitational Tournament in New York City next month.

The basketball review in the January Alumnus carried the season through the game with Ohio Wesleyan on January 18. On January 21 the Bobcats received their third and last setback of the season when they ran afoul of the Cincinnati Bearcats on their opponents' home floor, losing 51 to 42. The Bobcats held the lead at the half, but relinquished it during the final period. An off form defense tells the story.

Returning to Cincinnati again, February 1, mid-year exams having been successfully disposed of meanwhile, the Bobcats got back on the right side of the ledger with a 49-41 triumph over the Xavier Musketeers.

Avenging the only defeat inflicted on them by an Ohio team (Indiana and Kentucky outfits administered the two other reverses during a Christmas holiday trip), Trautwein's boys took the measure of the Cincy Bearcats, 57-42, February 4, in Ohio Gym. Baumholtz and Ott, as usual, were the high-point men.

With a bid for Ohio college basketball supremacy the Bobcats met and defeated, 48-45, the mighty Rockets of Toledo University, February 7, in a game that was unofficially regarded as a battle for the state championship. It was a dog-eat-dog sort of combat which brought the blood pressure of spectators to the popping point. The 3,000 or so fans who jam-packed the Men's Gym were weak from nervous exhaustion when the battle was over. The Bobcats played the last 14 minutes without their brightest star, Baumholtz, but were able to stop the Rockets' terrific game-closing drive in time to maintain their scanty advantage in points. After the opening minutes, four points was the greatest difference between the two teams at any time. Prior to meeting the Bobcat juggernaut the Toledo five had lost only one game in 15 starts. A Marietta College quintet which had improved vastly since an earlier meeting succumbed to a shower of Bobcat baskets, 41-34, on February 11 in the Pioneers' own field house. The score was deadlocked at 32-all when the regulation playing time ended. In the overtime period the Ohioans made every effort count, and won decisively.

Furnishing additional proof that they were one of the toughest teams in this section of the country, the Bobcats won from a lanky Washington & Jefferson outfit, 59-47, on February 15, on the home court. The Green and Whitemet practically the same team which defeated them 49-46 at Washington, Pa., last year and which was ranked as the second best team in the East. The Presidents came to Athens with only one mark on their escutcheon—and left the Hocking Valley with two large dents in their shield.

The Miami Redskins capitulated easily in the face of the Bobcats' assault, February 18, going down 61 to 20. The contest was a romp for the first-stringers and a long string of substitutes, as well as a welcome relief to spectators' nerves which were overwrought in the Toledo and W. & J. games. In this game the Ohioans sank 19 out of 21 free shots at the basket.

Accumulating a good lead the Bobcats coasted to a 65-52 victory over their ancient foes, the Ohio Wesleyan Bishops, at Delaware, on George Washington's birthday. The Bishops, usually hard to beat in their own balliwick, never had more than a fighting chance in this contest.

When Coach Trautwein withdrew his seniors from the line-up in the season's finale the boys were accorded such a thunderous ovation as the Ohio Gym has never before seen—or heard. They were escorted to the bench by the entire Dayton team and there greeted by their coach and the remainder of their teammates.

Here and There Among the Alumni

HENRY H. HUMPHREY, '84 (A.M. '87), has recently reopened his office in St. Louis, Mo., for the practice of consulting electrical and mechanical engineering. Mr. Humphrey is a life member and former vice-president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, has served two terms as president of the St. Louis Institute of Consulting Engineers, and is a past president of the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade. He holds a master of science degree from Cornell University. During the period of his professional activities Mr. Humphrey has planned and supervised the installation of mechanical and electrical equipment valued at many millions of dollars in the United States and foreign countries. His record of achievement is to be found in "Who's Who in America," in "Who's Who in Engineering," and in the "International Blue Book."

JAMES E. BEBOUT, '96, and Mrs. Bebout, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary Jan. 28 at their home in Logan. Both of the celebrants were 73 years of age. Mr. Bebout taught school for a number of years, served two terms as Hocking county engineer, and, in recent years, has been engaged in the lumber business.

CLARENCE C. HENSON, '99, New Orleans, La., a retired educator, now devotes his time to the reviewing of books and lecturing on current topics.

DR. L. B. NICE, '08, professor of physiology at the Chicago Medical School, was an Alumni Office visitor on February 14. Doctor Nice contemplates sending a daughter to Ohio University next fall.

ROBERT P. ASHBAUGH, '10, 2-yr., (picture on the next page) joined the Bell Telephone Laboratories in 1911. Two years later he entered the lead-covered cable development group and has been in that work since. He went to Japan in 1922 to supervise the placing and splicing of the first toll cable installed in that country, and remained to work with the engineers of the Sumitomo Cable Works on problems of toll cable design. He returned to the United States in 1924, and after several years in the Chicago laboratories, and later at Kearny, N. J., he is now cable development engineer at the main laboratories in New York City. He is the husband of BERTHA BUXTON ASHBAUGH, '13 2-yr. The engraving for the picture on this page was secured for the editor by ALBERT J. LOCHNER, '34, cost analyst in the Bell Telephone Laboratories in New York City.

Warmly greeted by Governor John W. Bricker at the conclusion of his Founders'

"Jim" McWilliams and "Princess"

Day address was Ross Alkire, Jr., a third-year student at Ohio University and a son of A. ROSS ALKIRE, '11, 2-yr., who comes from the Governor's home town, Mt. Sterling. A. R., Sr., is manager of the Hedges Lumber and Coal Co. Governor Bricker promised the younger Alkire that if possible he would bring Mrs. Bricker to Athens this spring and that they would accept the invitation to dinner extended by Alkire's fraternity.

Citing as an example, the work of HARRY L. RIDENOUR, '12, in the gathering and preserving of folk songs and ballads, a writer in the Baltimore Sun recently urged that collectors get busy and do work of a similar character in Maryland. Collector Ridenour, professor of English at Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, has just been appointed chairman of research in folk music by the Federated Music Clubs of Ohio. His first step will be to make a survey of what is now being done, following which he will suggest to the Federation a program for future development.

BASSLER, '13, 2-yr., and Mrs. Bassler (FAYE ELLIOT, '13, 2-yr.), at their address Goodyear Gumjaktiebogal, Jungfrugatan 58, Stockholm, Sweden. Early this month, reports Mr. Bassler, the letter was delivered to him in Panama City, Fla. Meanwhile it had been opened, as indicated by the re-sealing stamp, by a British censor, "Examiner 4569," presumably permitted to go on to its intended destination in Sweden, and returned to the United States because Mr. Bassler had come home on account of an eye ailment. The letter was some ten months on the road.

This man has given his time, untiring energy, and ingenuity to the scheduling and operation of these events. He has conducted one of the most successful year's programs of aerial events in the history of the association." The school was opened last September, and the 48 students are the finest of 300 recommended voices tested for admission. Most of the boys are from needy families; their $150 a year tuition being paid by music and civic-minded individuals, and, in a few cases, by parents. The school has no church affiliation. Represented among the students are Catholics, Protestants, and Jews. The youngsters must maintain passing grades in all subjects to be eligible for the choir. The curriculum is closely coordinated with that of the Columbus public schools. Sammy has issued a special invitation to Ohio University students to appear in his "So You Want to Lead a Band" stunt, which is a part of each performance. In a nationally syndicated feature story sent to the editor of The Ohio Alumnus by FRANCES GENSLEY, '37, of the Mansfield News-Journal, a Broadway columnist states that "Sammy Kaye has four batons made out of an Ohio University goal post." Maybe so. Maybe so, but the Ohio University goal posts have been made of steel pipe since long before Sammy's day at Ohio University.

His communication of February 9 to the Alumni Office was written at Central Police Station (he is on the police beat) at two o'clock in the morning. Frank wrote: "I am alone; the weather's so bad there is nothing but falling persons to bother the police and me." ROBERT C. PLANT, '40, whose desire to become a pilot was frustrated by defective eyes, is now wireless operator in the Royal Canadian Air Force stationed at Toronto, Ontario. He hopes to get "across" soon. He reports that "one of the smartest units around here is the Royal Norwegian Navy Air Force, which has a base on a nearby island in Lake Ontario. . . . They are all clean-cut Norsemen whose one ambition is to get back and carry on the fight. . . . Only the language difficulty keeps them from taking all the good-looking, young ladies away from the rest of us."
